

Social Action Committee Congregational Read

The Color of Love by Marra Gad

a memoir of a mixed-race Jewish girl raised in Chicago during the 70's and 80's

Read the book in April and join us in May for discussions virtually and socially distanced, in-person under the outdoor tent. Copies of the book, both paperback and Kindle versions, are available through the TBE Library. The Ann Arbor District Library also has paperback and CD copies available. Read a review here.

---

Marra grew up in a reform Jewish family going to religious school, Hebrew school and attending summer camp at Olin-Sang-Ruby Union Institute, a Reform Jewish camp in Wisconsin. Her story reminds us that we still have far to go to bring about racial justice and equity and it is not only for others. Right here in our own congregation, we can make a difference to embrace people of all races and to welcome and respect all Jews.

---

Join us for one of these series:
Monday, 5/10 and 5/24 at 12:00 pm

OR

Wednesday, 5/12 and 5/26 at 7:00 pm

RSVP to sign up for a discussion date (and your preference for Zoom or socially distanced, in-person under TBE's outdoor tent) to socialaction@templebethemeth.org

www.templebethemeth.org